

Primary winners are: Cronin, Meehan, O'Brien, Gaffney and Murphy

By Don Staruk

Rep. Chester Atkins, D-Concord, getting knocked out of the 5th District congressional race was the biggest news in Tuesday's primary elections. But almost as big were victories by Andover's Paul Cronin, John D. O'Brien and Ellen T. Murphy.

Rep. Atkins, after 22 years in public office, was knocked out by Martin Meehan, of Lowell. Mr. Atkins' roughly 2-1 loss here in Andover was consistent around the district. In his concession speech Tuesday night, Rep. Atkins threw his support to his opponent.

"To Mr. Meehan I say, congratulations," Mr. Atkins said. "And I'll be voting Democratic in November."

Mr. Meehan Tuesday night defended his campaign strategy, which consisted mostly of attacks on Rep. Atkins and his record.

"It was an aggressive campaign, but I think it was fair and it was on the record," Mr. Meehan said.

But it will be a different campaign between now and the Nov. 3 general election, Mr. Meehan said Wednesday morning.

"I'm going to be talking about the economy," he said.

His focus will be on unemployment in the district and "repowering the economy," getting health care for Americans, and on the education system.

Mr. Meehan's challenger will be Andover's Paul Cronin, of 8 Punchard Ave., who beat Michael Conway in the Republican primary. Mr. Cronin's margin of victory was 53 percent to Mr.

Town to appeal court ruling on bowling alley

By Don Staruk

The town will appeal the Aug. 27 Superior Court ruling on the old bowling alley property on Park Street. Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski said the town is appealing so it can defend "the integrity of the zoning bylaw."

"We feel that the Town Meeting action in 1985 was justified," Mr. Stapczynski said yesterday.

The zoning bylaw in question was established during a boom time when parking was a problem, said Mr. Stapczynski.

Benjamin Osgood, co-owner of the bowling alley property, was asked earlier this week whether he, and a separate $6 million federal lawsuit he has pending against the town, would go away for $500,000. He said he could not answer the question.

"I won't discuss any dollars and cents things in public," he said.

School Committee, selectmen clash over funds for buildings

By Lisa Boudreau and Don Staruk

Selectmen postponed approving a School Committee request Monday night to call a special town meeting Nov. 16, where voters would be asked to authorize borrowing $2.4 million to pay for specific school building repairs. Instead, selectmen scheduled a meeting for Monday, Oct. 5, at 7 p.m. in the town office building to discuss the matter with the School Committee and the Finance Committee.

"I am disappointed," Susan Jenkins, chairwoman of the School Committee, told the Townsmen Tuesday.

"If we wait until spring the way bids and construction contracts go, we could lose a whole year. If we could get the Beatrice Cloutier held a surprise birthday party for her mother, Delvina Beaulieu, who turned 96 on July 7. She held a party for 19 people at Jimmy's restaurant in Methuen and she said her mother was really surprised.

"She had a wonderful time," said Mrs. Cloutier, who lives at 11 Clark Road. Her mother lives with her.

In addition to close friends, there were several relatives at the party. Three grandchildren attended: Gerard Cloutier from Andover, Jeanne Mills from Middleton and Louise Hamman from Virginia, all of whom are the children of Mrs. Cloutier.

She grew up in Methuen and for a few years she worked in the Shawheen mills.

returning home, according to her granddaughter, Sally Magner, of 24 Linwood St.

"She's doing fairly well. She was released from the hospital yesterday," Ms. Magner said last Friday.

Ms. Hadley, 96, of 30 Chestnut Court, was carried from her apartment on Aug. 19, suffering smoke inhalation from an oven fire. Lt. Mike O'Neill found Ms. Hadley on the floor of her apartment with cuts on her hand.

She had apparently blacked out and burned a meal she had been heating in the oven. When she woke and saw the fire, she began hitting a bottle on the floor to summons help, breaking the bottle and cutting her hands, according

News In Brief

Brother, cousin charged in youth's shooting

By Don Staruk

Charges were filed last week against the brother and cousin involved in the Aug. 26 shooting death in Billerica of Ian Sakowich, a 14-year-old Andover boy.

Middlesex District Attorney Tom Reilly filed the charges Sept. 10.

Ian lived at 4 Colonial Drive with his mother, Colleen Gaumond. He was allegedly shot in the head at 12:50 a.m., on Aug. 26, by his 15-year-old cousin, Morgan Sakowich, in the kitchen of Morgan's family's Billerica home. Ian was pronounced dead a short time later at Lahey Clinic in Burlington.

Morgan is charged with manslaughter, larceny of the gun and breaking and entering into a motor vehicle.

Tim Sakowich, 17, who lives with his father at his grandmother's Billerica house, was charged with breaking and entering into a motor vehicle and larceny of a firearm.

Tim and Morgan allegedly stole out of a limousine parked on a Billerica Street on Aug. 25 a briefcase containing the .25-caliber handgun used in the shooting.

Paul Ryan, owner of the limousine and who held a permit for the gun, will also be charged, with carrying a firearm in an automobile unattended, a crime punishable by up to a $100 fine and loss of his permit.

All three defendants will be arraigned in Lowell District Court this Monday, Sept. 21.

Everyone else in the house was in bed and the three boys were in the kitchen of the house when Ian was shot. The boys said they thought the gun was a toy and it went off while Morgan was playing with it, according to reports. The boys had claimed they found the gun while walking along Nutting Lake, near the cousin's Billerica home.

Mr. Ryan went to Billerica police on the afternoon of the shooting, after hearing about it, to report his gun and briefcase had been stolen from his car some time Tuesday night.

Ian's parents are divorced and he was visiting with his father, Timothy M. Sakowich, and brother at the time of the shooting.

Essex County district attorney prosecuting the case. The trial will be in either Salem or Lawrence, depending on where it is assigned, according to Mr. Duncan.

Mr. Mooers, 51, of Hampton, N.H., was a 23-year veteran of the Andover Police Department when he abruptly retired Dec. 17, 1991, one day before he was secretly indicted on six charges of incest. Mr. Mooers was arraigned on Jan. 6 and is free on his personal recognizance.

The bowling alley . . .

But Mr. Osgood said he is anxious to sit down and talk with town officials.

A Superior Court judge ruled Aug. 27 that town officials illegally stopped development of the bowling alley property into six or eight retail shops back in 1987-'88, and instructed the building inspector to issue a building permit. Because of the delay in construction, the developers have a $6 million claim filed against the town in a separate federal lawsuit, which the town may also lose.

In light of the recent court decision, some town residents are questioning who got the town into the mess and how to get out of it.

John D. O'Brien, chairman of the Planning Board and candidate for state Senate, said this week he has not had time to read Judge Margaret O'Brien's decision, which berated the town for the parking bylaw adopted in 1985, calling it unconstitutional, and therefore had no opinion on it. But he hopes that the ruling doesn't mean the town can't have bylaws to control parking.

"I think the town has to have some bylaws," Mr. O'Brien said.

Mr. O'Brien was appointed to the Planning Board June 20, 1988, just a week or two after the board denied a request by the developers, Benjamin Osgood and G. Bradley Richards, to wave the parking requirements, and six days after the developers filed the appeal in court.

"I was never on the board for the disapproval of the bowling alley," Mr. O'Brien said Monday. "It was already ongoing."

He heard reports on the litigation as it progressed, but really didn't get into the details of the argument until last summer and fall when doing research on the bylaw to see how it applied to a request by another developer, Silverado athletic club. It was the requests by Silverado and Pasta Villagio restaurant, both in Park Street Village, and the Andover Townsman, for its new building on Chestnut Street, that led to changes in the bylaw this spring.

It is a down economic time right now and parking is not the problem it was seven years ago when the bylaw was adopted, but the economy will turn again and controls will need to be in place, he said. Still, the amendments to the parking bylaw, proposed by planners and adopted at Town Meeting this past spring, were very timely, Mr. O'Brien said.

"In light of the decision, I am happy that we worked on that part of the bylaw," he said.

It shows the willingness of the board to work with businesses, Mr. O'Brien said.

The town has until Sept. 25 to decide if it will appeal Judge Sullivan's ruling. Selectmen met twice, for a total of about two hours, before and after Monday night's meeting to discuss the litigation, but did not come up with a decision. The town has already spent about $60,700 fighting the case, said the town manager.

Ben Osgood

The $6 million lawsuit claim is for losses during what is already a four- or five-year delay in the development of the bowling alley property, according to Mr. Osgood, who said he doesn't know if, or how, the case can now be settled out of court.

"I don't know," Mr. Osgood said Monday. "The longer this thing goes, the more difficult things become."

"Time does not heal all wounds in this case," he said. "Time is the killer. The meter is ticking."

The town has just given the developers' attorney, Reginald Marden of Andover, requests for more depositions, testimony related to the case, each of which are very expensive, Mr. Osgood said Monday.

"Somehow, we have to get back to a table and talk about this thing," Mr. Osgood said. "We have made so many ovations to the town on this thing."

On Jan. 30, 1988, after appeals had been filed in court against the building inspector and the Zoning Board of Appeals, the developers signed an out-of-court agreement to go the Planning Board with a request for a special permit in an attempt to resolve the case without further litigation. "That is when we offered the $100,000," Mr. Osgood said. He believed the town was willing to find an alternative to the strict application of the bylaw.

But the special permit request, and the $100,000 offer, were denied. Instead of a settlement, the developers had a delay in the court proceedings and another case, this one against the Planning Board, to deal with.

"That's what really cost us an awful lot of time," Mr. Osgood said. "My feeling is we got set up."

The only two options Mr. Osgood said he saw, when interviewed before the town announced it is appealing, is that either the town appeal the court decision, which wouldn't affect the federal court case anyway, "or we all sit down and lock ourselves in a room until we arrive at a solution."

The bylaw

The parking bylaw, passed by Town Meeting in 1985, controls growth in town by requiring new or expanding businesses to provide adequate parking spaces for employees and customers. The number of parking spaces required depends on the type of business and its location.

In the case of the bowling alley, the change from bowling to the proposed use as retail shops required the developers to provide 87 parking spaces instead of the 12 that could fit there.

The amendments approved at April Town Meeting this year were intended to ease those requirements.

The amendments give merchants and property owners more options in terms of parking lot design and provision of on-street parking, particularly in the general business districts, according to Laura Hill, town planner.

The planning department came under fire last fall by a number of businesses that were trying to open, expand or build downtown but were restricted by a lack of available parking space. The amendments were the Planning Board's effort to answer some of the problems.

The amendments were intended, in part, to:

- Allow by special permit more flexible parking designs;
- Permit a limited number of compact parking spaces;
- Promote site designs with pedestrian access between parking lots and commercial properties to encourage walking;
- Exempt businesses in a mixed-use building requiring six or less parking spaces from having to provide on-site parking;
- Lower parking requirements for retail space on upper level and basement levels;
- Add parking ratios for other uses, such as day-care centers, nursing homes and affordable housing, which are not currently included in the bylaw;

• Provide additional allowances for uses that have limited or no on-site parking. The on-site parking requirement for a change of use or rearrangement of uses is waived if the proposal results in a net difference of three spaces or less;

• Allow proposals that lack sufficient on-site parking to seek a special permit for a change in the parking space requirements. Options include shared parking, satellite parking, joint driveways and payment into an off-street parking fund in lieu of on-site parking spaces.

Looking at Collins Center plans

The show is waiting to go on at the long-idle J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts. A volunteer subcommittee created by the School Committee, which oversees the theater that doubles as Andover High School's auditorium, will meet Tuesday, Sept. 22, at 7 p.m. in the Collins Center to review four to six proposals for managing the 1,200-seat theater. The meeting is open to the public.

The Collins Center was built in 1984 and was to serve as the high school auditorium and a venue for community and professional productions. A volunteer, non-profit governing board was appointed by the town to oversee the daily operations of the Collins Center. The Andover Endowment for the Arts ran the facility with the help of several management companies it hired until the spring of 1991, when the AEA went bankrupt and dissolved.

Since then the Collins Center has functioned mainly as the high school auditorium. The School Committee allowed a few community dance recitals that were booked before the management team folded.

During the past five weeks the School Committee solicited proposals for running the Collins Center that would not cost the town money.

"The question is whether or not the proposals come with financial support from outside sources," Chris Outwin, a member of the School Committee and subcommittee on the Collins Center, told the Townsmen Monday.

"Our goal is for the facility to be self-sufficient. Some proposals may call for a lease arrangement of the building and others may request there be a salary paid out to get started," he said.

The subcommittee will present its recommendation on the proposals to the School Committee at its meeting, Tuesday, Oct. 6.

AIDS subcommittee needs members

The School Committee is looking for people to join the AIDS subcommittee, which will recommend revisions to the current school attendance policy for those with HIV infection.

The committee is looking for medical professionals and parents to join school health educators on the subcommittee.

Those interested should contact the superintendent of schools office, 470-1700.

PaineWebber to hold free seminar on muni bonds

The Andover office of PaineWebber Incorporated will sponsor a free seminar on "Municipal Bonds and Tax Survival in the '90s," on Wednesday, Sept. 23, at 7 p.m. at the Andover Targe Inn, 131 Old River Road.

Michael DeLuca, investment executive with PaineWebber, will discuss why PaineWebber believes there is tremendous opportunity in the municipal bond market today, which particular municipal bonds offer the best value and how to structure and manage a municipal bond portfolio.

Mr. Boden, Andover branch manager, said, "With the changes in the investment environment and the potential for higher taxes down the road, investors should take a close look at their portfolios to determine what tax-saving strategies might be appropriate for them. PaineWebber believes that municipal bonds are a good tax-advantaged investment, have a high degree of safety and are flexible in meeting a variety of investment objectives."

Mr. DeLuca said, "In today's declining interest rate environment, investors should consider locking in a higher rate of return. The spreads between taxable and municipal yields in today's market are quite narrow, despite the fact that municipal bonds are exempt from federal, and in many cases, state and local taxes. Clearly there are many investment opportunities in the municipal bond market."

The seminar is free. For reservations or further information, call 975-1100.

PaineWebber Incorporated is a full-service securities firm with 250 offices and 4,870 investment executives nationwide. The Andover office is located at 138 Old River Road.

LENDER'S APPRAISAL

Many sellers think that the price of their home is determined solely by what they're willing to accept and what the buyer is willing to pay. There's one more variable, however, that can complicate the sale of a home — the lender's appraisal.

To protect the interest of their investors, the mortgage lender hires an appraiser to give an independent objective evaluation of what the property is worth. If the appraised value is lower than the selling price, and it often is, the seller will be glad that they've enlisted the services of a professional Realtor! The agent will then give the appraiser detailed information about other homes in the neighborhood which have recently sold that support the price of the seller's home. An appeal to the appraiser sometimes works, but if it doesn't, some delicate negotiations will follow. Both the seller and the buyer may have to make some concessions to make the transaction work. The bank may ask the buyers to increase their down payment, or they may ask the sellers for a reduction in price.

Two boards clash . . .

approval this fall, then some of the work could be done during vacations and over the summer," she said.

Ms. Jenkins told the selectmen there are several other reasons to schedule a special town meeting this fall: The repairs are scheduled to be done during the next five years anyway, they will be paid for with approximately $600,000 each year out of the school's operating budget set aside for maintenance; the longer the schools wait to make repairs and improvements, the more it will cost because of inflation and today's bond market offers 5-year loans as low as 5 percent.

The repairs the School Committee wants to make with the $2.4 million bond would pay for the following repairs and improvements: drainage and asbestos removal at West Elementary; roof and boiler replacement at Bancroft Elementary; media roof, heating system, classroom renovations, asbestos removal and brick and thermal window pane replacement at West Middle School; and security systems at both middle schools, the high school and Bancroft.

Dick Muller, 18 Candlewood Drive, a member of the schools' subcommittee for finance, said he is dismayed that selectmen aren't already convinced that major repairs are needed.

"We have serious problems and we have to somehow come to grips with how to fix them. Let's get on with these things. I urge the Board of Selectmen to do whatever possible to have a special town meeting, Mr. Muller said.

Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski told the selectmen the town's financial growth projections would support ear marking approximately $600,000 each year for school improvements. Planned expansions by Hewlett-Packard, Genetics Institute, Vicor and Dyonics should boost town revenues during the next few years, Mr. Stapczynski said Monday night.

The consensus of the selectmen is that they didn't have enough time to study the School Committee's proposal before their Monday-night meeting and they wanted to discuss funding options with the Finance Committee before a special town meeting is called. Such a meeting could cost the town as much as $10,000.

Selectman Bill Downs said Monday night that although there is no question the schools need work, he doesn't want to commit spending so much of the town's money five years in advance. If the town's budget ends up short anytime during the next five years, Mr. Downs said services and/or personnel may have to be cut to make up the difference.

Ms. Jenkins responded that it is attitudes like those expressed by Mr. Downs that have put off spending money to maintain school buildings and has led to the "crisis" in the schools today.

She was referring to a drainage problem at West Elementary that caused mold to build up to toxic levels that closed the school last fall, as well as health-code violations at West Middle School this spring.

Mr. Stapczynski told the members of the two boards present Monday night there are other matters that could be addressed at a special town meeting, which would justify calling a $10,000 special meeting, but nothing that couldn't wait to regular town meeting in the spring.

Growth plans for the town's elementary schools and high school, which are now being studied by the School Building Committee, are not part of the $2.4 million-bond plan proposed by Ms. Jenkins. Neither are improvements such as lockers, shades, intercom systems, tennis courts and chalkboards that were outlined in a school-building-need report compiled several years ago.

Joanne Marden of the Finance Committee told the selectmen she has reservations about calling a special town meeting because it forces voters to look at issues out of context of the town's entire budget. But, if a meeting were called in mid-November it would give town financial planners time to compile more accurate revenue projections.

The selectmen, School Committee and Finance Committee will meet Monday, Oct. 5, at 7 p.m. at town offices to discuss the bonding issue and school maintenance. After that session the selectmen will vote whether to call a Special Town Meeting for Monday, Nov. 16.

Dr. McQuillan will speak on civic responsibility

The League of Women Voters of Andover, assisted by town-wide PTO, invites all townspeople interested in education to hear Superintendent of Schools Dr. Mark McQuillan Wednesday, Sept. 23, at 7:30 p.m. at Doherty Memorial auditorium. He will speak on "Civic Responsibility in Our Schools."

Dr. McQuillan earned his master's and doctoral degrees in education from Harvard University and an undergraduate degree from the University of California at Berkeley with honors and election to Phi Beta Kappa.

Before coming to Andover, he was assistant superintendent of schools in Beverly, a basic skills consultant and writing specialist in Newton, coordinator of English in Plymouth and co-director of the Teacher Corps Project in Boston. He has consulted on curriculum development for school systems in New England and published on language arts issues and is the author of several articles concerning research in the teaching of writing.

The Doherty auditorium faces

The Park and is located between town offices and school department headquarters. After speaking, Dr. McQuillan will be available for informal discussion at a reception in the auditorium lobby.

"The League of Women Voters of Andover cares about civic responsibility and our new superintendent is concerned with education on this vital matter. Education is one of the few areas where local communities can really make a difference. People are going to want to come and hear what he has to say," said League President Virginia Cole.

Laurie Huberman of Salem Street, chair of the league education committee, which will act to support and strengthen Andover schools, welcomes new committee members. The League of Women Voters of Andover, a nonpartisan organization, seeks new members and returning members interested in the political process. Membership is open to all men and women.

Meet Joseph Sardo. Like many people, Joe thought the best medical care was way down the pike, not around the corner. Until he learned from his cardiologist, Dr. Aubrey Dickman, that he had a blockage of the artery in his left leg. That was when he was referred to Dr. Mark Connaughton at the New England Memorial Hospital Center for Interventional Radiology.

As a highly skilled specialist, Dr. Connaughton was able to diagnose and treat Joe's vascular disorder non-surgically, performing a balloon angioplasty. Aided by the unique technology of a state-of-the-art digital imaging system not available at most hospitals, Dr. Connaughton and his trained team were able to perform the corrective procedure precisely without having Joe undergo the risk and trauma of major surgery. Joe felt very little pain, went home the next day, and recuperated in no time.

While some people are surprised that such breakthrough medical care is available so close to home, it's no longer a surprise to Joe Sardo. For the latest in quality patient care, he looks no further than his own community hospital.

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

FLOURIDE'S SUCCESS STORY

Nearly 40 years ago, the results of prolonged and controlled studies of water-supply fluoridation confirmed that fluoride was both safe and effective in reducing tooth decay. Since then, fluoride has played a major role in surpassing the U. S. Public Health Service's goal of raising the proportion of nine-year-olds who had never had cavities in their permanent teeth to 40 percent. In fact, over two-thirds of American nine-year-olds are currently decay-free. The reason for this cavity-free trend rest largely with ingested fluoride's ability to strengthen babies' and children's teeth so that they resist decay. Once their teeth have erupted, this protection can extend to at least the outer layer of enamel by virtue of surface applications of fluoride.

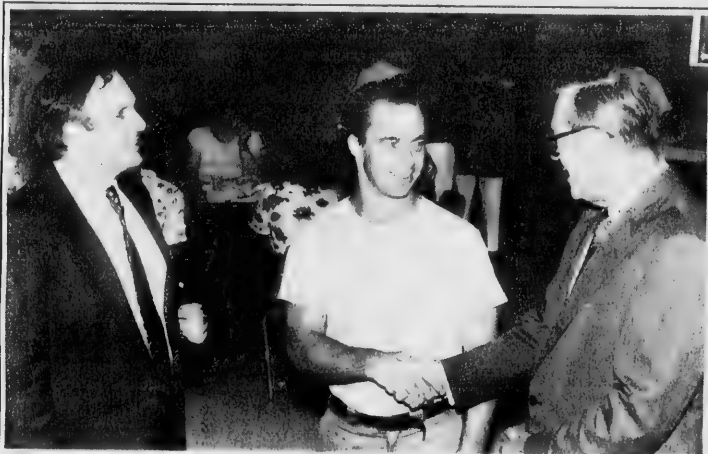

Remember, prevention is the beginning of good dental health. Through good habits like brushing & flossing, and with the use of fluoride in drinking water and fluoride products, you have more control than ever before over the health of your teeth and gums. Keep up also with regular professional care and cleanings for a healthy smile that will last a lifetime. For complete gentle dental care, call us at 475-2341, 296 Lowell Street, Rt 133 (with easy access off Rt 93). Mon & Thurs 10-8, Tues & Fri 8-6, and by appointment.

P.S. Teenagers and adults can assure continued protection by using fluoride toothpastes, rinses, and professionally-applied too coatings

Classes begin at Pike School

Classes began at Pike School yesterday, Sept. 16, for 408 students from more than 30 communities in the Merrimack Valley. This year's enrollment is larger and its geographical representation greater than last year, according to the school.

"We are healthy in this economic environment," said Pike's admission director Judy Camber. "We had a very strong applicant pool and have a terrific group of new students joining us this year."

In addition to an increase in enrollment, Pike has added one more faculty member and maintains a one-to-eight faculty student ratio.

Ten percent of Pike's students are receiving more than $230,000 in financial aid, the largest amount the school has ever granted. Under a special Pike program for financially disadvantaged students from Lawrence, eight students in grades 6-9 have been awarded full-tuition scholarships. Pike tuition ranges from $4,250 to $8,950. Pike is an independent, coed day school located on Sunset Rock Road and enrolls students in pre-kindergarten through grade 9.

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

ODDS STACKED AGAINST THE LOWER BACK

Both the words "lumber" and "lumbago" (the outdated term for low back pain) are derived from the Latin word for "loin". The reason that American adults have about an 80 percent chance of experiencing back pain in this low-lying region has as much to do with positioning as flexibility. The five lowermost vertebrae, which comprise the lumbar spine, occupy a position between the last rib and the pelvis. Along with the vertebrae in the neck, this stack of interlocking spinal bones exhibit the greatest degree of mobility in the spine. For this reason alone, the lumbar spine is likely to be more vulnerable to mechanical difficulties than is the mid- (or thoracic) spine. Add to this the fact that the lower spine is subjected to heavy lifting forces, and the stage is set for trouble.

Lower back pain is very common and should not be ignored. We offer natural and safe treatments, to you and every member of your family, without the use of drugs or surgery. Call us today, at DELORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, 475-5042, for an appointment. Our office is located at 15 Central Street.

P.S. Lower lumbar nerves transmit sensation from, and control muscles on, the legs and pelvis.

Merrimack Valley Hospice will offer a bereavement support group next month

Merrimack Valley Hospice will offer a bereavement support group beginning Monday, Oct. 5, at Sacred Hearts Church Parish Center (across from the church at 165 South Main St.), Bradford, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. for 10 consecutive weeks.

The support group is for anyone who has experienced the death of a loved one and would like some group support in dealing with the loss. According to Judith Thomson, coordinator for Merrimack Valley Hospice, the support group offers an opportunity for participants to give and receive support and share ways for moving on with daily living. "It is helpful for those in the group to see others rough times."

The group is free and open to the public. Preregistration is required. Call Merrimack Valley Hospice at 470-1615 or 800-933-5593 to register.

His story

biographies on missionaries such as Albert Schweitzer.

Today those biographies are among the 200 boxes of books he and his wife are in the process of unpacking at their new home. They've hired a carpenter to build custom bookcases along all the walls of one large room that will be the library.

As Rev. Richardson spoke with a guest last week, he eagerly pointed out many of the unique items decorating the living room. Above the fireplace mantle, watching over all who enter the room, is a tapestry of an Egyptian goddess. Portraits of his great-great-great grandfather and grandmother hang on two other walls.

On the floor is a Muslim prayer rug that he and his wife brought back from a sabbatical trip to the Middle East two years ago.

"We were in Egypt just before the Persian Gulf War began," said Rev. Richardson.

"I felt completely safe. The Egyptians supported the American presence in the Gulf and the people there were very friendly to us," he said.

A print written in Arabic that displays the more than 90 words for Allah hangs on the fourth wall in the living room. The eclectic mix of several of the world's religions are at home in the Richardsons' new house. Rev. Richardson, like all UU clergy, draws from the world's religions to develop and maintain an inclusive parish community where all are made to feel welcome.

"As I was watching the Olympics this year, I was inspired by the way the people of the world came together peacefully. I think it's tragic that we can't repeat this in other venues, besides sports.

"Instead of people having to believe in one thing, one doctrine, I would encourage people to explore and grow with other beliefs. (Andover's UU congregation) has members from a Jewish background, members from Islamic backgrounds and I'm performing a marriage ceremony for a couple from Japan who have a mixed Western, Shinto and Buddhist background," Rev. Richardson said.

Peter Richardson

He was born and raised primarily in Western Massachusetts, although his family did travel to his father's different assignments as a civil engineer. During Rev. Richardson's final year as a history major at Tufts University, he decided he wanted to become a minister.

He graduated from St. Lawrence University's theological school in New York, and was ordained that same year as a UU minister in Kent, Ohio. Rev. Richardson also has a master's degree in education.

He has served as the minister of several UU churches, including parishes in Ohio, Texas and Needham. Before he was chosen to head Andover's UU church, he was the minister of the First Parish Unitarian Church in Kennebunk, Maine, for the past 15 years.

Rev. Richardson is the father of two daughters, Tamsin Kemos, 24, and Bradbury Richardson, 20. He is divorced from his first wife and widowed from his second. His third and current wife has two adult children from her first marriage.

Being divorced and widowed hasn't been a limitation for Rev. Richardson as a UU minister. He said every parish community he has been involved in has always been welcoming, regardless of his marital status. Rev. Richardson said this is the norm, not the exception with UU congregations.

Written into UU church bylaws, and recently adopted into the rewritten Andover UU bylaws, is language stipulating that parish officials and members be as welcoming and as inclusive as possible, including singles, one-parent, nuclear and extended families as well as same-sex partners.

"More than 50 percent of the people in the Andover congregation have children.

It would be very easy to forget that there are other types of families," he said.

The Andover UU church has training sessions, run by members of the congregation, for members of the congregation. These sessions work on ways for the membership to truly be as inclusive as possible for everyone, he said.

"I believe in the importance of options. Some churches steer new people into fitting into the established mold of the other congregational members. I believe everybody has gifts to bring with them and share with their community. I think it's all about affirming the individual," he said.

One way Rev. Richardson works toward this goal is to use language that does not exclude "all lifestyle options" in his sermons to the congregation.

Goals for the church

Rev. Richardson will not be the only one addressing the congregation Sunday mornings. And Sundays won't be the only days members will meet as a congregation, he said.

During the fall, several Sunday sermons will be conducted by parishioners.

"We also hope to celebrate the seasons," said Rev. Richardson.

"We may even have several meetings outside while the weather permits," he said.

Rev. Richardson hopes to become involved in and expand the Summer Start program housed at the church this summer. The program for youngsters, fashioned after the national Head Start breakfast and enrichment program, provides area children with structured morning activities.

Impressions of Andover

Rev. Richardson said he is impressed that Andover, which is much larger, and has a bigger population than Kennebunk, Maine, has preserved so much open space. He and his wife enjoyed a hike through the Ward Reservation off Route 125 last week.

"It's quiet too. The other night I could hear the train whistle in the distance and thought that was really nice.

"I came here from a small town where I could go into town hall and call everyone by name. I'm looking forward to getting to know people here," he said.

Her story

Motley Richardson's family has frequented for five generations, made her $1,000 richer.

Since it hit the stands Aug. 20, Ms. Richardson's book has sold more than 670 copies.

"The first day it arrived from the printer I brought several copies to the the local (North Haven) bookstore where they were having a signing. A little girl came up to me and said, 'This is the first time I've ever met a real author. Is this a best seller?' The woman who owned the bookstore and I laughed and she told the girl it was a best seller in North Haven," Ms. Richardson said.

"Peter really encouraged me to write both my books," she said. Her first book, Hurricane Island: the Town that Disappeared, investigates the mysterious ruins of what once was a community on an island off the coast of Maine. As a child, Ms. Richardson sailed from her family's summer home on North Haven Island to Hurricane Island for picnic lunches. She said she always wondered what happened to the people who once lived there and why they left.

The Needham native wrote her first book while she was the community news editor for the Journal Tribune in Biddeford, Maine. At the time, her husband was the minister of the Kennebunk Unitarian Universalist Church. Ms. Richardson's most recent book was a full-time endeavor, she said.

"This is really a book only she could write," said Rev. Richardson, who encouraged his wife to take a leave from her job and write for a year.

"I knew almost all of the people I talked to, at least by name," she said. "Some of the children I grew up with returned to the island to live year round. I took my camera and photo stand with me to each home I visited and that way I was able to photograph pictures in their family albums that they never would have let me take out of their house.

"This was really like my own sabbatical," said Ms. Richardson, who accompanied her husband two years ago on his sabbatical to the Middle East.

"Peter supported me for a year and my mother supported the publishing of the book," she added.

Ms. Richardson's parents knew Rev. Richardson years before she ever met him. They were on a search committee to find a new minister for the Unitarian Universalist Church in Needham. At that time she was already married and was going to Middlebury College in Vermont. She later transferred to Dartmouth College in New Hampshire, where her first husband was a graduate student.

"I was the second woman to register at Dartmouth College. I would have been the first, but another woman registered 20 minutes before me," she said.

Although she was allowed to take classes at the school, Dartmouth was not giving degrees to women at that time.

"They let the wives of students enroll, but they weren't going to give us degrees," she said. She later received a bachelor's degree in German from Brandeis University.

After her second child was born, she decided it was time to get more involved in her local Unitarian Universalist church.

"At that time my first child was 4. We drove by a church and he pointed out the window and asked, 'Mommy what's that' and I realized it was time to get involved in the church," she said.

She has two children, Charlie Billings, 25, and Elise Billings, 21.

Ms. Richardson has a diverse background that includes organ studies at New England Conservatory of Music in Boston and work with many UU church choirs over the years. She has also volunteered her photography expertise, photographing UU General Assembly meetings. The Richardsons met in 1984 at the annual meeting in New York.

"Peter and I found that we had a lot in common - music, photography and many more things like our mutual connection with Maine," she said.

Ms. Richardson's careers include being an administrator of a UU church in Concord, a marketer for a construction firm, a journalist, photographer, and editor of a daily newspaper in Biddeford, Maine.

Ms. Richardson hopes to work in the newspaper field but in the meantime she is getting acquainted with the UU parish and Andover.

"One of the nicest things about being the new minister's wife is that you meet so many people right away. We had some people come over the other day with a big tin of cookies. They've made me feel very welcomed."

Andover residents did well in the primaries

Conway's 47 percent overall, but he took 73 percent of the vote here in Andover.

"I was very pleased," Mr. Cronin said Wednesday morning. "That's a pretty decent victory."

Mr. Cronin said his victory was especially meaningful because his opponent campaigned longer and outspent him 3-1.

"We'll be the only candidate coming out of the primary with all his bills paid and money in the bank," Mr. Cronin said. "I practice what I preach. I'll be coming out of this campaign without a deficit."

Mr. Cronin will continue raising funds for his campaign and is looking forward to support from Jack Kemp when the former presidential candidate appears on Mr. Cronin's behalf at the Ramada Hotel Rolling Green on Lowell Street this Wednesday, Sept. 23.

Mr. Cronin said it didn't matter which Democrat won, that both were vulnerable, and that he had a plan to campaign against either.

"We're confident. We're ready to go," Mr. Cronin said.

But he said he was very disappointed in the low voter turnout, which was about 50 percent statewide and about 30 percent in Andover.

Democrats cast a total 77,642 votes to the Republicans' 21,892 in the congressional race here, which could mean the Republicans are either going to have to get a bigger turnout by their party in November, or pull a greater portion of the unenrolled vote to the right. Mr. Meehan acknowledged that he did get a large amount of support from unenrolled voters.

O'Brien, Gaffney win

John D. O'Brien, of 108 High St., had an impressive win over his three Democratic opponents for the right to run for state Senate in the 2nd Essex and Middlesex District, which includes Lawrence, Andover, Billerica and Tewksbury. He will go against Republican James Gaffney III of Tewksbury.

Mr. O'Brien was feeling "pretty good," Wednesday morning, happy with his nearly 2-1 margin of victory in the district.

"I think the best decision we ever made was not to give up any part of the district," Mr. O'Brien said.

He was also happy with the showing in Andover where he took 76 percent of the vote.

"Andover just came through. It's just great," Mr. O'Brien said. "I just can't tell you how grateful I am to my town. It's just a great show of support."

Now it's time to switch from

Get involved in the election

Voters have spoken. Republican Paul W. Cronin of Andover took 73 percent of the votes for representative in Congress on Andover's GOP ticket, 53 percent in the district. Incumbent Congressman Chester G. Atkins was soundly defeated by Martin T. Meehan, who landed 64 percent of the Democratic vote in Andover, to Rep. Atkin's 35 percent.

In addition to Mr. Cronin, Andover has other winners. Democrat Ellen Murphy, with 66 percent of the Andover vote (61 percent in the district), will face incumbent Andover resident, state Rep. Gary Coon, in the November election.

And John O'Brien of Andover, who is Planning Board chairman, garnered 76 percent of the votes on the local Democratic primary ticket, 43 percent in the district. He faces James Gaffney (67 percent of Andover's GOP vote, 56 percent in the district) in November's state Senate race.

Andover has another resident running in November: incumbent John Harris, who took 1,680 votes to 503 blanks in Andover Tuesday, running unopposed. His November opponent is Democrat Ronald Ford, who took 45 percent of the vote in Andover.

What does it all mean? It means this is an exciting election year for Andover with so many residents who are candidates.

If you never have worked for a candidate in an election, this would be a good year to do it. It's challenging and exciting to follow an election through a candidate. And it's important.

If you are interested in working for a Republican candidate, call Bob Manning. If you are a Democrat and want to work for that ticket, call Bob LaRoche.

Election letters

The Townsmen welcomes residents' letters about the November election and its candidates. Letters will be published up until the issue before the election. Letters that are part of writing campaigns will not be published.

Election letters should not be puffery; they should make a specific point. The editor reserves the right to omit letters or edit them. They should be no longer than two pages, typed and double spaced.

Is this a case of discrimination?

By Perry Colmore Catlin

At the office this week, we have come up with one of those situations that really has no answer.

A man who is Jewish, and a resident of Andover, had written a letter to me but decided he wanted to talk about it, and perhaps not have it published.

A story on page 27 of the Aug. 20

Townsmen bothered him. It was in the religion section and it had a headline of "Abba Christian Theatre invites teens and adults to read for fall production."

The first line of the story, which the Townsmen received as a press release so it was not written by staff, was: "Abba Christian Theatre invites Christian adults and teens to read for its fall production of The Complete History of the Old Testament in Twenty Minutes."

The man who wanted to complain said at first he thought "I was being too sensitive when I perceived a built-in anti-Semitic or racist factor."

He then asked, "Why did the writer or editor involved choose to include that word ('Christian') in that context?"

I phoned one of the names from the Abba Christian Theatre press release and she explained that "this is a ministry seeking to bring a message of Jesus Christ." I asked her what she would do if a Jew came to audition for a part in the play and she said that would be OK if that person had "accepted Jesus as his savior." In fact, she said a person auditioning for a part has to sign an agreement that he or she understands that part of acting with this group in this play means accepting the responsibility of interacting with the audience after the play and spreading the word about Jesus.

I told her that I thought the press release was misleading, that we probably should have phoned her and asked if it would be appropriate to remove the word "Christian" in the sentence about inviting Christian adults and teens to read for the play. And then I told her that if she'd said yes, only Christians could read for it, I would probably not be interested in running the press release because it would be discriminatory.

She understood my point, I believe, but I get hers, too.

Then a reporter at the Townsmen asked: "Well, what about Merrimack Valley Jewish Singles who are always doing interesting things? We run their releases. Are they discriminating against non-Jewish singles?"

Hummmmm. What about that? And what about "Jewish residents invited to learn Hebrew in time for Rosh Hashana," the headline of another Aug. 20 story in the religion section that tells of Rabbi Osher Bronstein of Chabad Lubavitch inviting adult Jews to take five free weekly lessons.

Since I am Protestant, I tend to bend over backward to make sure I don't discriminate against Jews because the world has done so much of that.

But does all this mean I can't advertise for a reporter who likes to read newspapers? Is that discriminating against those who don't, to push the discussion to the point of absurdity. Or what about the time I needed a reporter at another newspaper I worked at and most of the staff at the time was female. Because it is good to have male and female points of view on staff, I would have liked to advertise for a male reporter, but of course I didn't. Actually, I would take the best reporter I could find, regardless of gender.

But isn't asking just Jewish singles to an outing the same as inviting just men to join a club and not wom-

In Florida she read of hurricane help in Andover

Editor, Townsmen:

Last month our family moved from Andover to South Florida. It was with great sadness that we left Andover. We continue to receive the Townsmen at our new home.

I have just finished reading the issue of the Townsmen dated Sept. 3. I was so proud to read about the children and adults in the Johnson Acres area that helped to collect goods for the victims of Hurricane Andrew.

My children proudly brought the article over to our next-door neighbors, whose family were personally affected by the hurricane, to show them that the people in our "old" community care, too.

I would like to make a plea for continued donations from the Andover community. The devastation in Homestead, Fla., is beyond description. The horrors that the victims of the hurricane have suffered are beyond belief. There are thousands of people who have no one to turn to for help because all of their family members and friends have suffered the same devastation. They need all of our help desperately and will continue to need it for many months.

The Red Cross urges that no more clothing be donated. However, people are desperately in need of spring water, baby food, formula, diapers and wipes, cans of food, cleaning supplies, insect repellent, pet food, plastic trash bags, flashlights, batteries (C and D), radios, cots, tents, nails, claw hammers, wood ladders and hand saws.

Children would appreciate books, coloring books, crayons, toys and stuffed animals.

Contact the Red Cross or Salvation Army for information on drop-off locations for donations.

Thank you. These people desperately need to know that their neighbors from all over the United States care.

And to the children and adults from the Johnson Acres area: Bless your hearts. Somewhere in Homestead, someone is doing just that.

Andover needs bike paths

Editor, Townsmen:

The time has come to seriously consider the role of paved bicycle paths in the planning of Andover's future. Bike paths can serve two important functions; they can provide a safe, healthy, recreational activity and they can provide a local transportation alternative to supplement automobile transportation. Both uses would significantly improve our quality of life as we approach the 21st century.

The pleasure of recreational bicycling on a bike path is known to anyone who has ridden on one even once. Free of concerns about motorized traffic, one may truly relax and enjoy the surrounding beauty. For those who have never experienced the joy of riding on a bike trail, I highly recommend the bike paths on Nantucket, the Cape Cod Rail Trail or the East Bay Bicycle Path in Rhode Island. Bring the entire family; they'll love it.

The concept of bicycle paths providing an alternative mode of transportation probably sounds quite far-fetched, but consider the possibilities. Assume there were bike paths radiating like spokes from the center of town. One would lead to the Shawshen area, another to West Andover, a third perhaps along the Shawshen River to Ballardvale, a fourth leading toward Harold Parker State Forest and fifth toward Merrimack College.

These paths could be used for shopping excursions and local chores, perhaps even providing a needed lift for the Main Street business district. People working in or near our town could use them to commute to work. Spurs could be added to the bike paths to connect to all the public schools, thus providing our children a safe alternative to busing and carpools.

The benefits would be enormous. A major contribution to automobile pollution and engine wear is the short, start-stop trip. Statistics have shown that using bicycles for even 10 percent of these short trips can significantly reduce emissions. Furthermore, the reduction in automobile congestion would help alleviate the parking shortage on Main Street.

In this time of rising costs and reductions in municipal services, the expense of bike paths is a valid concern. Recent federal legislation, however, has set aside funding earmarked for projects such as bike path development. The Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act of 1991 (ISTEA) has allocated $3.3 billion ($43.9 million for Massachusetts) over a six-year period for "transportation enhancements" such as bike and pedestrian paths.

Bicycle paths could only add value to our town and our quality of life. Future letters will discuss a variety of topics regarding bike paths: issues, costs and benefits and enjoyable paths located in and near New England.

Discrimination and an angry phone call en? Frankly, even though I consider myself a feminist, I usually side with the concept of single-sex clubs because sometimes I'd rather meet with a group of women without men being present and I think men should be allowed to congregate without women being there, too.

I guess if people didn't abuse systems, common sense would work: A Christian theater group that has proselytizing built into its play would be asking other Christians to try out for the play; a women's group that wishes to gather without men there should be allowed to.

Trouble is, there is history out there, history that if you weren't Jewish you were not allowed to do some basic things. There is history that had women not allowed to vote, and so on.

So we are all sensitive and at times we go overboard. I think the Andover man who is Jewish is right to ask the question. He is right to wonder if Abba Christian Theatre is discriminating against others.

There is no easy answer, no easy way to define discrimination. But we should continue to ask that question: Are we discriminating against anyone here?

No. Andover Country Club picks up the pieces

By Mary Katis

North Andover Country Club reported a kitchen fire at 11:33 last Wednesday morning. James Bennett, chef and steward of the club, heard a popping sound in the wall behind the Fryolator. When the oil reached combustion temperature, Mr. Bennett and his assistant chef, Cheryl Wesolowski, tried to put out the flames. Mr. Bennett used a hand extinguisher to no avail. The kitchen had been redone in 1990 because of fire damage. Workers installed a fire suppression and sprinkler system designed for kitchens.

"Engine One arrived at the country club four minutes after the alarm to find smoke was showing in the kitchen," said North Andover Fire Chief William Dolan. "It was not a full response because Engine Company Two and the North Andover ambulance were at the Middleton and 114 line at a car accident."

It took 11 minutes for the fire equipment to travel from the Middleton line to the country club after the report came, as shown in the North Andover fire log at 11:48.

"The fire was stopped in the kitchen, but the source of the fire was hidden in the walls," said Lt. Fred McCarthy who was with Engine One at the country club. "The smoke was on the ceilings and in the walls. Walls were burning on the second floor and in the attic. We had to contain the fire and protect the remaining building. A trapped fire in a confined space is the hottest fire."

"It was hard to locate the source of the fire because of the roof configuration," said Patricia Frothingham of Andover, club president. "A brand new burglar and fire alarm, heat and smoke detectors and a fire extinguisher system, Secure Comm, was recently installed."

"Firefighters came from the neighboring communities of Lawrence, Andover, Methuen and Middleton," said Fire Chief Dolan. "Lawrence sent four men and Andover sent three men who responded with seven North Andover firemen at the country club. The Main Street fire station was covered by Methuen firemen and Middleton firemen covered the Old Center station to keep North Andover secure."

Mutual aid provides for neighboring communities to share firefighters and equipment when necessary. Chief Dolan cautioned that a fire like the country club fire with another alarm across town would cause a ripple effect - four communities involved in one incident.

"As the town grows, we get more incidents at the same time and it leaves us short-handed for an emergency," said Chief Dolan.

The fire damaged the second floor apartment, the attic and kitchen, plus the two front rooms on the first floor of the main house.

"Two North Andover firemen watched the building all night to make sure nothing rekindled," said Lt. John Garvey, North Andover fire investigator. "The investigation is still in the initial stages but it seems to be electrical in origin. We don't know where it started yet. The insurance company will handle testing on electrical equipment. I have no idea of the time period for the results.

"Chief Dolan used the relay method to rehabilitate the firemen because it was a hot and humid day and the heavy insulated gear fatigues the men," Lt. Garvey said. "They did an excellent job and stopped the fire from moving farther back into the building."

The day before the fire, Mr. Bennett moved his wife, Mary, and their sons, James, 2 years, and Joey, 4 months, into the second-floor apartment at the club.

"I got my children and wife out," said Mr. Bennett. "I grabbed the baby without a diaper and took Mary without any shoes. I told Cheryl (Wesolowski) to leave the building and alert everyone. All our personal things are gone, things we can't replace. I was able to salvage some books in a chest. My cookbook with recipes I've collected since the sixth grade wasn't burnt."

"Everything melted and where we lived is gutted," added Mr. Bennett.

William Leone, chairman of the house committee at the country club, and his wife, Gretchen, have been a great help to the Bennett family. Mrs. Leone and Pat Haley, club member, drove Mrs. Bennett and her sons to New London, N.H. the afternoon of the fire so she could be with her parents.

"My wife and I are grateful to the club members because they care," said Mr. Bennett. "I haven't been here long, only a week."

A special atmosphere of care and concern for the members and employees is evident at the country club. There has been an outpouring of help for the young couple.

"About half of the 215-family memberships are from Andover families," said Mrs. Frothingham. "Members are networking to see the Bennett family are not stranded and have furniture and necessary clothing. The staff has rallied to help the club with this emergency. Mr. Bennett is working with the dedication of a 10-year employee. Cheryl (Wesolowski) is supportive as always."

The wedding reception scheduled for the week of the fire and those planned for next months are being canceled. The club has been totally sympathetic of the brides and their families and the hardship of reorganizing a wedding. The club is trying to assist them. The Sept. 12 bride was able to schedule her reception at the Lanam Club in Andover.

Club members will continue to use the golf course and the tennis and paddle courts. The function hall, pro shop and dining area in the back of the main building were not destroyed. The barn and the main building are about 50 to 75 years old, said Mr. Leone. The club is anticipating its 100th anniversary in 1997 and plans to rebuild.

"The plans for rebuilding are not clear, but the final design will be the same farmhouse look," said Mr. Leone. "There will be new systems in the building that can support current activities."

Teddy bears to the rescue

teddy bear, which was provided by Beth Belanger's Teddy Bear Program. Ms. Belanger, a former social worker and currently a North Andover reserve police officer and full-time officer at MIT, started the Teddy Bear Program at the Lawrence District Court and North Andover Police Department.

"The Princess House donated the teddy bears to be stored in police cruisers and used in emergencies with children," said Police Lt. John Carney. "The program has been run by donations since Dec., 1991."

James Crane, 25 Edmonds Road, North Andover, a North Andover fireman and certified Emergency Medical Technician, started the Teddy Bear Program at the Fire Department in North Andover. An anonymous donation used through Michael and Kathleen Holland's flower shop has kept teddy bears in the North Andover ambulances.

Antique Auto Show rolls down Main St.

The Andover Center Association will sponsor an Antique Auto Show this Saturday, Sept. 19.

About 60 autos, all 25 years or older, are expected to arrive for the event. According to Sean Quinn, a member of the Center Association, "Whole families will be involved in the show, not just men."

New car dealers will also participate, interspersing their latest models among the antiques. The cars will cruise down Main Street in downtown Andover from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. to the sound of '50s music and hotdog vendors. Mr. Quinn encourages the public to attend this free event and calls on anyone older the age of 25 who is interested in exhibiting an antique to join in the fun.

If it rains, the show will be held the following Saturday, Sept. 26. For more information, contact Bill Nolan at (603) 898-9397.

Gridders face tough opponents in second half of season

By Rick Harrison

The early part of the 1992 schedule seems to favor the Andover High varsity football team.

For the second straight year the Golden Warriors will play just one game in their first six weeks together, giving the coaching staff ample time to put all the jigsaw pieces in the right places.

Most of the tougher opponents will be played in the second half of the season, theoretically allowing AHS to gather some momentum and meet the 'iron' under a full head of steam.

The only fly in the ointment is Methuen High, and tomorrow night the Rangers could prove to be the one flaw in the logic.

Coach Dick Collins' team, generally considered one of five with a legitimate shot at the Merrimack Valley Conference championship this fall, opens the '92 campaign tomorrow night at 7:15 p.m. under the lights at Nicholson Stadium.

Methuen is also one of the select five, so Andover will find out quickly where it stands.

After tomorrow the Warriors won't play again until the home opener Friday night, Oct. 2 against another weak Lawrence High squad.

The three other members of the Conference elite, Chelmsford, Billerica and Central Catholic, don't pop up on the schedule until November.

Last fall Andover rolled over its first seven opponents, outscoring them 169-18 and stretching its two-season win streak to 14 games, before stumbling against Chelmsford (17-16) and Central (17-16) en route to its third consecutive 8-2-0 record.

The Warriors return five offensive and five defensive starters from that team, with graduation hitting hardest in the line and at quarterback.

"We have a good complement of running backs and receivers," said Coach Collins, "but we're inexperienced up front and we have to find a replacement (for Matt Daniels and Jason McCue) at quarterback."

"Inexperience is not necessarily a big disadvantage," continued Collins, who greeted 56 candidates at the opening of double session workouts in late August. "Over the years we've had plenty of kids go out and do a great job in their first year of varsity ball."

"It's just that element of uncertainty. You don't know how they'll react until they're on the field against enemy shirts in front of a crowd."

Andover High School gridders get some practice in before their first game of the season, which is tomorrow night against Methuen.

Feaster Five takes place Nov. 26

By Don Staruk

The air is cool and dry, the days are still long and there is still plenty of time to get out on the road and train for this year's Feaster Five five-mile road race to be held in downtown Andover Thanksgiving morning.

The fifth annual Feaster Five Road Race and Health Walk starts at 8:30 a.m. on Thursday, Nov. 26. Approximately 2,860 runners completed the race last year and organizers are expecting even more participants this year.

"I'm hoping we top 4,000," John Burke, co-director of the race, said this week.

Part of the increase is due to the first official addition of a walkers' category this year.

The race is organized by the Merrimack Valley Striders Running Club and benefits Lazarus House, a homeless shelter in Lawrence, and the Merrimack Valley Running Club's youth track programs.

Sponsors include the Andover Townsman, DeMoulas Market Basket, Andover Walk-in Medical Center, Orthopedic Rehabilitation Affiliates, Bernardin Insurance, Power Bar, Veryfine juices, Saucony, Turkey Hill Farm, Dr. James J. Peck and Athlete's Corner.

The entry fee is $12 before Nov. 5 and $10 after. Applications are available at the Townsman, Bernardin Insurance and Athlete's Corner.

Runners and walkers who register before Nov. 5 will receive a sweatshirt. All finishers, including walkers, will receive the traditional apple pie, supplied this year by DeMoulas.

The first 100 volunteers who sign up to help with the race will also receive free sweatshirts. Call Bill Pennington, 475-6347, or John Burke, 372-6160.

Highlights of this year's race include an appearance by Johnny Kelly, the 84-year-old marathon legend who twice won the Boston Marathon, came in second seven times and completed Boston 61 times. Mr. Kelly retired from marathoning after competing his 61st Boston run last April.

Fitness Expo

In addition to being at the race, Mr. Kelly will be a featured guest at the Fitness Expo the day before the race, from 2-8 p.m., at the Doherty Middle School.

The expo will offer free massage therapists, a question-and-answer format on injury prevention and rehabilitation, blood pressure, fat and cholesterol testing, sports equipment sales and raffle prizes including shoes, Christmas trees and magazine subscriptions.

Course

The race course starts at Bernardin Insurance at 60 Main St. and goes south to a left on Salem Street, right on Holt Road, left on Stinson Road to the end, then along Route 125 for about 100 yards before taking a left back onto Salem Street. It then turns right onto Woodland Road, right on Highland Road and left onto Chestnut Street back to The Park before turning left on Bartlett Street and finishing in front of town offices.

Course records are held by Guy Stearns, 24:31, in the men's open category; Jack Fultz, 26:45, in the men's masters; Julie Peterson, 27:53, in the women's open; and Kathy Northrup, 34:57, in the women's master division.

Training runs on the course are scheduled for every Saturday morning in November starting at 8:30 from the Athlete's Corner at 10 Main St. Fernando Braz, coach of the Merrimack Valley Striders, will lead the runs and answer questions for runners.

The only significant change in the race is the award ceremony will be held immediately following the race, at 9 a.m., for overall winners, and all age group awards will be mailed to those winners. The change should avoid the long delay in the ceremony last year.

Gridders face tough opponents

"It's all a guessing game until the gun goes off and you see everyone under fire for the first time."

Key losses from last year are quarterback Matt Daniels, now a post-graduate student-athlete at Phillips-Exeter Academy, Jason McCue who is playing football while attending the University of Rhode Island on a track scholarship, All-Scholastic lineman Erik Greenstein (University of Maryland), Mark Sobieck (Oklahoma State), Dennis Godwin, Garrett Ferris (UMass Agricultural School), Ryan Kelly and Todd Allard.

"On paper depth is a major problem," admitted Collins.

Returning starters

The five returning offensive starters are senior center Sean O'Leary (6'1", 230 pounds), senior fullback Alan Guibord (6'0", 190), senior halfback and Steve Shepard (6'1", 195), senior split end Colin Arsenault (6'0", 175) and senior tackle and J.P. Ciruso (5'10", 240).

On defense two-way starters Shepard (cornerback), Arsenault (cornerback) and Guibord (linebacker) are joined by veteran junior linebackers Toby Guzowski (6'2", 190) and Matt Wolcott (5'9", 182).

"One of our major strengths is outstanding quickness on defense, especially with Guzowski and Wolcott," said Collins.

O'Leary, Guibord, Shepard and Ciruso are quad-captains.

Guibord was arguably the best running back in the MVC over the first seven games of the 1991 season, until an ankle injury early in the second quarter of the Chelmsford game essentially sidelined him for the remainder of the year.

The Warriors were undefeated and en route to their eighth straight win, outplaying Chelmsford when Guibord went down. Up to that point he had 10 touchdowns, 60 points, and more than 700 yards rushing.

He missed the entire North Andover game and was used only sparingly on Thanksgiving Day against Central.

Shepard and Arsenault caught three touchdown passes apiece, Shepard finishing with 38 points and Arsenault 22 last year.

Ciruso worked his way into the front line last year, starting four games as a junior.

Lettermen and transfers

Returning lettermen in the line are senior offensive tackle-defensive end Steve Marchlik (6'4", 218), senior two-way tackle Brian Adams (6'0", 245), senior offensive guard-defensive tackle Cameron Arnott (5'11", 195), senior guard John Kirkland (5'11", 208), senior guard Mark Maesano (5'8", 205) and junior guard Phil Smith (6'0", 195).

Maesano is a converted fullback and Marchlik has moved from end to tackle on offense.

Skill position players who lettered last year include senior wide receiver-placekicker Scott Henry (5'11", 165), senior wide receiver Rich DeAngelis (5'9", 160), senior quarterback Adam Goddess (5'10", 170), junior quarterback Jeff Brammer (6'1", 175), junior quarterback Paul Allard (5'11", 165), senior halfback Rod Lumley (5'4", 130), senior halfback Bert Vining (5'9", 155) and senior halfback Andy DeBenedictis (5'7", 150).

The Golden Warriors have picked up two transfer students, both of whom could start tomorrow night and will see plenty of action throughout the year.

The talented pair are senior split end-safety Mike Roberts (6'2", 160) and junior fullback Dave Jorgenson (6'2", 188).

Roberts, reportedly a fine basketball player as well, moved from West Bloomfield, Michigan and Jorgenson from a small town in Virginia.

"I talked with both their previous coaches and both come highly recommended," said Collins. "They've also looked very good in pre-season."

Roberts is also a kicker and has challenged incumbents Scott Henry and Steve Shepard for the placekicking and punting jobs they held last year.

Henry scored 31 points with his educated toe last fall, booting 19 extra points and what is believed to be a school single-season record four field goals.

Tentative starters

The probable starting offensive lineup for tomorrow night's Methuen clash includes Roberts and Arsenault at end, Ciruso and either Marchlik or Adams at tackle, Smith and Maesano at guard, O'Leary at center, Wolcott and Shepard at halfback, either Guibord or Jorgenson at fullback, and either Goddess or Brammer at quarterback.

The indecision with Guibord is due to a shoulder injury suffered in a hard-hitting pre-season scrimmage with Lowell High. If he's healthy he will start.

By today the coaching staff has probably decided on a starting quarterback, but earlier this week Goddess and Brammer were still embroiled in competition for the spot.

Allard was factored out of the equation after he sustained a sprained thumb injury against Lowell.

The starting defensive unit against the Rangers will feature O'Leary and Ciruso at tackles, Maesano at noseguard, Wolcott and Guzowski at linebacker, and the quartet of Roberts, Shepard, Arsenault and Allard in the secondary.

Earlier this week the defensive end positions were still up for grabs, and once again Allard's status was in question.

Guzowski was the third frontliner injured against Lowell, suffering a bruised sternum.

"All three (Guibord, Allard, Guzowski) missed out final scrimmage against Winthrop (last Saturday) and are questionable for Methuen," noted Collins.

Scrimmages

Except for the injuries Collins considered the Lowell scrimmage very beneficial.

The two MVC teams got together because they will not play one another during the regular season. "We outscored Lowell 2-1 (12-6)," noted Collins. "It was a great scrimmage, hard-hitting, tough and encouraging on a hot, humid day. We hit just as hard as Lowell, and I told the kids any time you can do that it's impressive."

Andover opened its scrimmage schedule against Greater-Lowell Regional, the two-time defending Eastern Mass. Division 5 champion, and dominated despite holding out several of its top players.

Winthrop, replacing longtime scrimmage foe Wellesley which opened its regular season last weekend, outscored the undermanned Warriors 2-0 (12-0) at Lovely Field last Saturday morning.

"We weren't prepared for back-to-back tough scrimmages (Lowell and Winthrop) just three days apart," explained Collins. "We weren't up to par, mainly because of the injuries, but I was still satisfied with the way we moved the ball until we got down close to the goal line."

Collins points to defending MVC champ and Eastern Mass. Division 2-A playoff champ Chelmsford, 11-0-0 last fall, as the clear-cut team to beat once again.

He feels Methuen and Central Catholic are on the next level, a notch or two below the Lions, and then groups a veteran Haverhill team and a Billerica program on the upswing.

"I don't see many weak sisters. There never are," noted Collins. "Methuen has the quarterback (Jason Danella) and several other excellent skill people returning. Larry (coach Klimas) always fields a team that executes well. This year, with talent on top of execution, they will be very tough."

Records, staff

Collins launches his 34th consecutive season at Andover, and 38th overall as a football coach, with exactly 200 career victories.

The two-sport Hall of Famer has 121 MVC wins, seven league titles, two Eastern Mass. Super Bowl crowns (1974 and '75) and a 24-6-0 ledger the past three years.

Offensive backfield coach Justin DeMarco begins his ninth year as an Andover assistant, and once again completing the top-notch staff are defensive coordinator Joe Iarrobino, Joe Celia (defensive backs, quarterbacks), offensive line coach Glenn Alsop, kicking coach Peter Reilly and freshman coaches Ken Pellerin and Ken Maglio.

Derek Williams wins fourth stage of five-day race Killington Stage Race

Derek Williams of Andover won the fourth stage of the five-day Killington Stage Race in Central Vermont Sept. 6. The race was a 16-mile criterium run through downtown Rutland. Mr. Williams, riding in the Masters 45 category (U.S. Cycling Federation-licensed cyclists ages 45-54) competed against 39 other riders.

Nicknamed "the Beast of the East" by Winning Magazine, the Killington Stage Race is a five-day, five-event race. The winner will be determined by the lowest overall elapsed time for all five stages. Mr. Williams has completed a time trails, two road races and this criterium. The final winner will be determined in a 67-mile road race through the mountains of Vermont, finishing at Killington Ski Resort.

More than 700 riders are competing in eight different categories, including a professional field with the two top American teams, Coors Light and I.M.E.

BOW: Piercarlo Valdesolo, Matt Brooks and Tyler Volpe.

The Andover Junior Warriors opened the regular season against an outclassed Topsfield team. Noelle Blank had three goals and Julie Litzenberger, Megan Burke, Kaitlan Dargan, Courtney Barron and Barbara Cantor also scored. Charlotte and Sarah Muller, Bethany Caruso, Jessie Smith, Viki Pierce, Megan Roth, Kim McKew and Viki Costello had assists. Barb Cantor and Brenna O'Connor led the defense with the goalies never touching the ball.

The Warriors competed in the North Reading Labor Day Tournament. Andover lost the opening game 1-0 against an older and stronger Wakefield team. Andover played a Winchester team in the second game that had won the state title last year and eventually won this tournament. Andover was able to keep the final score to 1-0 due to excellent goal play by Kaitlin Dargan.

Andover's final game was against Danvers. The game was stopped 10 minutes short because of the excessive number of goals scored by Andover. Viki Costello, Megan Roth, Kim McKew and Brenna O'Connor had outstanding games.

Blazers 2 - Saugus 4

Jenny Murnane crossed the ball to Sasha Nelken whose shot was deflected to Alexa Kokinos for the goal. Amanda Piercy scored on a corner kick in the second half to tie the game until two scores by Saugus sealed the outcome. Meghan McDougall and Sarah Plamondon did an outstanding job in goal.

BOW: Stephanie Banos, Hannah Edmands and Caitlin O'Connor.

When refinancing or buying a home, Andover Bank's Rate Lock/Re-Lock Option lets you lock in a rate at application for as long as 60 days with no points paid at the time of application. Best of all, if rates should increase, Andover Bank guarantees the rate won't go above the rate offered when you applied.

So don't delay your application process simply because you think rates may go down. Apply now and our Rate Lock/Re-Lock option will provide you with the guarantee of a lower rate.

sprint and we have to organize a little more and focus on the issues," he said. "To me, that is the economy and education and I think the two are directly tied together."

Mr. O'Brien talked with Sen. Pat McGovern, his former boss on the Senate Ways and Means Committee and whom he seeks to succeed, after his victory and said that she was very proud of the campaign he had run.

"She congratulated me. She said she was proud of me," Mr. O'Brien said.

Sen. McGovern, D-Lawrence, will work with the party for a victory in November, Mr. O'Brien said, but he stopped short of saying she endorsed him, and played down the value of endorsements in the next six weeks.

"I think there'll be a real coordinated campaign," he said. "You really still have to define yourself, but she'll be a great help."

Mr. O'Brien said his opponent, Mr. Gaffney, will have to make a good showing in Andover to have a chance in November.

"I think I stack up pretty well against him," Mr. O'Brien said.

Mr. Gaffney also had a 2-1 victory in Andover although it was a much closer race against his opponent, Brion Cangiamila, in the district overall.

Mr. Gaffney said he and Mr. O'Brien have different philosophies and that he hopes to do a lot of campaigning and debating to define those philosophies for voters.

Mr. Gaffney will stick with his campaign strategy, campaigning on the issues, he said.

"I had attempted to run a campaign which would reach out to the general electorate," he said.

His focus will continue to be ways the sta te can retain jobs in the district.

"That is my priority," Mr. Gaffney said.

Murphy vs. Coon

Ellen Murphy was "thrilled" with her victory in the Democratic primary for the 17th Essex District in the House of Representatives. In November, she will face Rep. Gary Coon, R-Andover, who was unopposed on the Republican ticket.

Ms. Murphy said she took 12 of 13 precincts in the district, which includes Andover and part of Lawrence.

"The numbers were there from our voter ID, but it was thrilling," Ms. Murphy said Wednesday morning.

She was out in Elm Square earlier in the morning, thanking voters for their support.

The campaign up until now has been of a personal nature, she said, to let voters "see who you are," but she said now the focus will shift to the issues.

"The economy is going to be big, but education and the problems of education and funding today will be a big focus," Ms. Murphy said.

She will not attack Rep. Coon, she said.

"I did well running on my own merits and I'd prefer to distinguish myself," she said.

"But I will carefully investigate his record and try to exploit his weaknesses, of which I believe there are many."

Ms. Murphy did not spend all her campaign money and will hold a fund raiser to build on the remainder with a reception at the Andover Inn on Oct. 1.

"I do think it's going to be a tough race and I'm going to have to work very hard," she said.

Rep. Gary Coon said Wednesday afternoon that he wasn't surprised by the primary results. "I look forward to a good, clean race. I plan to continue to do the job." He said he will continue to get out and listen to the concerns of the people.

Brooks fosters strong sense of community

By Mary Katis

In a time when most schools are struggling with budget cuts and discontinued programs, North Andover's Brooks School has a 5 percent increase in student population from last year.

Brooks was founded in 1927 with 14 students, three faculty members and a headmaster and headmistress. A million dollars in scholarship funds were given this year to 25 percent of the 338 students enrolled.

Lawrence and Grace Becker have been Brooks' headmaster and headmistress for the past seven years.

The philosophy of Brooks' trustees and Brooks School is to have a family-like atmosphere with a strong sense of community, said Mr. Becker. Less than half of the students are from New England, with 30 states and 14 foreign countries represented.

Almost half of the students live on Brooks' campus in modern, attractive dorms with 10 to 12 students and a faculty member in residence. Every Saturday evening, boarding students are invited to a faculty member's home.

"When a student wants to talk, a faculty member is available," Mr. Becker said. "Faculty place students' boarding life on top priority."

The sense of community is reinforced each week when the student body gathers in the chapel, at school meetings and at meal time, with students and faculty members sharing the same tables so they can discuss day-to-day happenings.

"Students are highly motivated and achievement-orientated," Mr. Becker said. "They want to take the toughest courses and too many courses at once. We encourage them to be realistic about what they can do in a day."

"There aren't many one-sided kids at Brooks," he said. "Everyone must try a different sport. Students do not have to excel in every sport or in every theater production, but the emphasis is on participating."

An exchange program with Africa has been available for the last eight years. Nine students will go in January to two schools in South Africa and two students to a school in Kenya.

The African boys' school sends students for the winter and spring terms.

A bilingual school in Szeged, Hungary, sent four students to Brooks for the fall term.

The Hungarian students are sponsored by the U.S. Government Samantha Smith Memorial Exchange Program. Brooks students will travel to the Hungarian school in March for a six-week study program.

Brooks School library was designed for a school of 200 students in 1964. The library has a solid collection but it needs more space.

Thompson's offers innovative services

Thompson's has been a member of the Andover business community since 1955. Starting as a small newspaper and card shop, it has grown to be a full-service office supply store and a social expression center.

In the spirit of continuing growth, in 1988 Thompson's was acquired by Loring, Short and Harmon, one of New England's most prominent office supply specialists. This partnership has made Thompson's part of northern New England's oldest and largest office environment resource.

Now, with the power of a prominent retail chain, Thompson's is better able to meet the needs of Merrimack Valley businesses with new, innovative services such as office supply management, fax order entry system and greater catalog service.

This union has broadened the store's product base with quality furniture lines, expanded its office planning and design service and added a furniture restoration service.

With dedication to quality, Thompson's grows with you, offering "low prices, great services always," said Janet Wallace, store manager.

Thompson's of Andover also has the distinction of being a Hallmark store, offering the traditional and the innovative in greeting cards, stationery, gift wrap, party ware, albums and gift items.

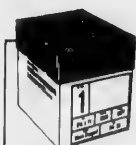

The new products and services mingled with its traditional office supply and stationery services is Thompson's commitment to serving customers as they meet their challenges in the 90s.

With dedication to quality, we grow with you, offering "low prices, great services always," said Janet Wallace, store manager.

Thompson's strives to meet the needs of Merrimack Valley businesses with new, innovative services.

Merrimack students grow personally, professionally

Merrimack, a mid-sized, modern, Catholic college located in North Andover, reflects the teaching traditions of the founding Order of St. Augustine.

The college provides, within a Judeo-Christian tradition, a values-sensitive environment and the opportunity for students to develop a mature, intellectual, cultural, social, emotional and moral awareness.

The college integrates professional education with a commitment to the liberal arts and is a major educational resource for the Merrimack Valley.

The college seeks students interested in pursuing individualized education and fosters high standards of personal development and professional achievement, as well as an appreciation of cultural heritage and a mature sense of social responsibility, said school personnel.

Merrimack students are all ages and from various backgrounds.

Through its cooperative education program, students may alternate academic and work semesters, helping them finance their education and gain valuable work experience.

Its Urban Institute in downtown Lawrence offers a small number of students the opportunity to live at the institute, participate in an intensive seminar and work for a city agency or institution.

For more information, call the admissions office at 837-5120.

Surveys: Kids need guidance

Youth today aren't developing the values they'll need as adults, according to recent surveys conducted by the Josephson Institute of Ethics and The Search Institute.

Both surveys found an unprecedented percentage of American youth cannot tell right from wrong.

"America's youth have little or no moral and social norms to guide them," says David Miller, vice president of Quest International, a non-profit educational organization promoting positive youth development.

The Josephson Institute of Ethics agrees.

Its study warns that "if major efforts are not made to bring youth to a more positive integrity-based value system, we can expect a decade of tragedies and scandals caused by unethical conduct."

Quest programs encourage parents and teachers to work together to instill in students such traditional values as honesty, self-discipline, responsibility and the ability to get along with and help others.

Backstreet, Cactus Jack's offer 'treats for all tastes'

Whether your culinary tastes include exquisitely prepared continental or American cuisine, exciting lighter fare or the best Mexican/southwestern cuisine north of the Rio Grande, Backstreet and Cactus Jack's will satisfy those tastes.

For the second consecutive year, Backstreet was named a winner of the Best of the Best Five Star Diamond Award, the Academy Awards of the restaurant industry, signifying Backstreet as one of the top 50 continental cuisine restaurants in the United States.

According to John L. Thomas, chairman of the board of the Best of the Best Fine Dining Awards, recipients are selected by a panel of more than 200 experts, each of which is a renowned chef, owner of a famous restaurant, food critic or media restaurant reviewer following an unannounced visit to the restaurant.

The Backstreet dinner menu includes an extensive selection of beef, seafood, veal and poultry entries in addition to exciting daily specials prepared by chefs Michael Kotce and Patricia Horan.

For those who desire lighter dining, Backstreet's lunch and evening cafe menu offer a wide selection of choices, most of which are priced under $7 for a complete meal.

In addition, Sunday through Thursday evenings, one child's meal (under 12) from the children's menu is complimentary with each adult meal ordered.

For the best in listening and dancing music, Backstreet's Showtime lounge features the area's hottest bands performing on Friday and Saturday evenings.

For authentic Mexican and southwestern cuisine, Cactus Jack's offers the area's most extensive, highest quality menu offerings at low prices in a fun setting.

Complete entree selections begin at $4.25 and include such Mexican choices as enchiladas, fajitas, tacos, chimichangas, burritos and quesadillas as well as Cactus Jack's own homemade chili.

A wide selection of southwestern choices is also offered, including hickory smoked baby back ribs, grilled hickory smoked sirloin steaks, barbecue chicken and grilled seafood.

In addition, chefs Lee Forcino, Antonio Geurrero and Carlos Chaveco prepare exciting special entries daily.

All Cactus Jack's menu offerings are homemade daily, using only the finest ingredients and no cholesterol, no salt or vegetable oil and no MSG.

For the finest and most unique dining experiences, Backstreet and Cactus Jack's are the answer. Both are open for lunch and dinner.

Courtney's offers easy one-stop fashion shopping

"For more than eight years, Courtney's Collections of Andover has answered the needs of those looking for that extra special gift, developing a reputation as Andover's "elegant little department store."

From the front of the store, located at 39 Main St., the attractive displays of fine and unique products, such as jewelry by Christian Dior, Napier, Trifari, Laurel Burch, appear effortless.

Behind the scenes, owners Lee and Dee Zolner have worked hard to balance the sportswear department with clothing for all occasions, including casual day and special outfits for evening outings.

Unlike many stores that specialize in clothing, Courtney's takes the extra step and provides a complete line of fine-name accessories, from cosmetics to hosiery to perfumes.

The most comprehensive selection of cosmetics is available.

Courtney's is the only store in the area authorized to carry lines such as Estee Lauder, Clinique, Lancome and Elizabeth Arden.

Realizing that it isn't enough to simply offer products, the Zolners have arranged for specially trained sales staff to assist in choosing what product works best for the individual and how to use it properly.

The latest and hottest selling fragrances are also available. Women can choose between well-known names such as Obsession, White Linen, Shalimar, Oscar de la Renta, Chanel and Eternity.

Courtney's Collections provides a complete line of fine-name accessories.

For men, the popular Polo cologne, Drakkar, Aramis and Obsession for Men are available. And if your favorite scent isn't on the counter, Courtney's Collections can special-order it in a short time.

Courtney's also carries a large selection of Liz Claiborne handbags and scarves in addition to one of Andover's largest selection of Hanes hosiery.

Special orders for that hard-to-get size or style are happily accommodated.

To get a peek at the new fall fashions at Courtney's Collections of Andover, stop in between 9 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday.
